LINER DELAYED FOR WOMAN TO GIVE CASH BOND

The Hamburg-American liner Westphalia was delayed sailing from Boston for European ports today until a passenger, Mrs. Dorothy Roessle, a member of the wealthy Roessle family of Roxbury, obtained $1,000 cash bond for appearance in court later in answer to a writ calling for her arrest for conversion of jewelry from the estate of Daniel Ford of Commonwealth avenue. A purser lent Mrs. Roessle $300 to help make up the sum required.

MORE WALL STREET AGITATION—More stocks found new low going places.

Nothing is the matter with the country or with Wall Street, it was said yesterday that Mr. Du-rait, the able automobile gentleman, was letting others have one of the stuff that he bought at low prices in other words, "liquidating."

Nobody was hurt, except the gamblers, and the whole world knows that the only way to discourage vice is to make it expensive.

Wall Street always makes gambling expensive, if you keep at it.

THE SENATE undoubtedly will confirm the debt arrangement with Italy, as it should do. The settlement was fair. Without Italy the victory of the Marne would have been impossible. Instead of collecting money from Germany now, the French and English will be carrying out the orders of President Wilson, translated from Berlin to Paris and London.

ment. Why, is not clear. They object to foreigners coming to the United States, although, like the rest of us, they are all descendants of foreigners.

But in the Italian debt settlement there is no question of Italians coming here. They only send money. Why object to that?

IT IS SAID in the Senate that the Ku Klux dislike Mussolini, another mistake. He is, in some ways, their kind of man. Strong arm methods are his methods. He makes people work. When Julius Gary, of the big steel company, met Mussolini in Rome this conversation occurred:

"How did you come to Rome?" "By train."

"Did you notice the Italian countryside early this morning?" "Yes, I was looking out of the window at daybreak."

"Did you see anybody?" "Yes, the fields were covered with people, before sunrise, all working hard."

"That's my idea of the welfare of Italy," EVERYBODY'S WORKING. Mussolini works, makes every-

JAIL PROBE WITNESS TELLS OF GAMBLING AND WOMEN'S VISITS

Augusta, Me., March 26.—Women disappeared into the cells of men prisoners in the Kennebec County Jail, according to a former inmate's testimony at the State House hearing looking to removal of Sheriff Henry F. Cummings.

The sheriff is charged with many irregularities in connection with his jail administration.

Other witnesses today told of visits by the prisoner to an Augusta lodging house, where he wanted to be with the girls, and was arrested.

It was also testified there was drinking in the jail. Turnkey Frankham was said by a witness to have been intoxicated on more than one occasion.

The police court judge was given a perplexing problem to solve in the arrest of a man who already was a prisoner, even though he was roaming the streets.

SHORTCIRCUIT BY CAT TIES UP WHOLE CITY

Fall River, March 26 (AP)—A stray cat was responsible today for the suspension of the activities of Fall River's 111 mills, all its stores, factories and business places. The town had had no breakfast and when it saw a fine, fat sparrow light on a transformer it made a flying leap for the bird.

In so doing the cat was charged with electricity and caused a short circuit in the large transformer, suspending electric service in the city for nearly half an hour.

Service was back to normal after repairmen had made good the damage. The cat will recover.

GANGSTER, CAUGHT IN ROUNDUP, SETS POLICE ON TRAIL OF 'KILLER'

Police of the Fields Corner station today learned the identity of the slayer of their fellow officer, Patrolman Frank J. Connan.

The information was secured shortly after the arrival at the station house of a youth with a long criminal record, who was brought from Cambridge where he was arrested for drunkenness.

Following a brief conference with Capt. Matthew J. Taylor, more than a dozen special officers hustled from the station, intent on bring in at all costs the man wanted.

It was understood that the arrest of the alleged slayer was merely a question of timing him.

The youth taken into custody in Cambridge is said to have been a member of a South End gang composed chiefly of Dorchester youths living in the neighborhood of Hart-

GIRL STUDENTS FLEE CENTRAL SQ. BLAZE

Sweeping through the huge Central Building, a four-story women's structure in the heart of Central square, Cambridge, fire caused more than 100 girls and men to seek safety in the street, destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of goods, almost completely paralyzed the business which has been the scene of several fires during the past year, and resulted in the sounding of fire alarms.

Investigator Timothy P. McCarthy and Herman James Fitzgerald, Patrick Murphy and Henry Caddy, all of Route 4, were injured by a large fire which broke out after the fire had been burning for more than an hour.

Damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

Fifty of the girls who fled before the flames had started over the building, smoking both sides that stupor attended.

REVERE GIRL, 18, DYING AFTER TAKING POISON

Miss Jeanne Calverio drank a quantity of poison from a bottle in the office of T. Harold & Co., No. 22 Barrett lane, Malden, today, and as a result is lying between life and death in Malden Hospital.

To Patrolman Joseph Henry who was made in the police ambulance to the hospital the suffering girl people.

"Oh, I want to die," she said in answer to Henry's questions, Miss Calverio denied she was disappointed in love or disappointed for any reason.

"The girl, who is sixteen years of age, lives in Keane street, Revere. She appeared at the Remick factory in Malden at 7 o'clock this morning. Entering the office before the arrival of the clerk she went to a medicine cabinet and seized the bottle, raised it to her lips and drank a considerable portion of the contents."

Miss Calverio screamed as the heavy bottle seemed to fly off and through.

Her outcries were heard in the cotton-picking rooms adjoining the office. Girl employees rushed to her aid and telephoned for the ambulance.

BRITAIN WILL STAND BY DEBT AGREEMENT

London, March 26 (AP)—Great Britain is not renouncing, and does not intend to repudiate its debt settlement with the United States.

This statement was issued today from a semi-official source on the part of Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who feels that the recent speech in the House of Commons, complaining against the American policy of debt collection, has been misunderstood in the United States.

Churchill's semi-official spokesman declared the Chancellor desired merely to bring the state of European economies to the attention of the American people.

COLE SLAYER KILLED BY YOUNG GANGSTER PICKED UP AS SUSPECT

District Court today, and his case continued at the request of the police, who discovered he posed a long record.

PRISONER GRILLED.

Then the Dorchester police were notified and sent to Cambridge for the prisoner, who was rushed to Fields Corner for questioning by Captain Daily and his subordinates.

A short time after his arrival the special officers were called in to give brief instructions, and left him behind.

Police officers were being held, one having been picked up in Brockton and the other two in South Boston. The three taken into custody yesterday were released by order of Capt. Daily after they had established alibi.

GOVERNOR AROUSED.

Governor Fuller issued a statement announcing he had ordered the state police to cooperate with the Boston authorities in the hunt for the slayers of Officer Comess. "It seems almost unbelievable," the Governor's statement read, "that a murder could be committed in Boston and the murderer not be apprehended. I am sure the murderer will be captured."

Representatives Charles S. Ladd and Newton today filed a writ with the clerk of the House, authorizing the Governor to offer a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension, arrest and conviction of the slayers of Patrolman Comess.

A man at liberty under heavy bonds, charged with implication in numerous robberies in one of which a dozen guns were stolen, was sought by the police today.

Concentrating on the new case, a detail of inspectors and special officers was sent out to seek the man in question, who was recently released from Charles River Jail and is said to be of a desperate character.

At the same time a roundup of all criminals and suspicious persons was being made.

The search for the record book of Ives-Johnson & Co., containing the names and addresses of the persons to whom the murder weapon was sold, was still going on.

Police officials were annoyed at the loss of this book, which, according to the manager of the Ives-Johnson store, was loaned to the office of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien in 1921 and never returned.

District Attorney O'Brien claimed that exhibits are always turned over to the office of the clerk of courts after a trial, but it is understood the book in question disappeared immediately after the telephone party's robbery trial.

It was announced that Patrolman Comess's funeral will take place tomorrow morning at nine o'clock in St. Anne's Church, Newport Avenue.

Police officers will serve as a pallbearers and there will be a big police detail present, headed by Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson.

HEARD SLAYERS FLEE.

John A. Higgins of No. 25 Dickman street, Dorchester, through whose yard the thugs ran after the killing, insisted on running to catch the murderers of their fellow officer. Boston police started to gather in all young men with criminal records, together with any others whose characters are known to be offensive.

Regarding the shooting as a challenge, the members of the department are overlooking no leads which may assist in bringing the slayers to justice.

SEEK END COMED.

In addition to inspectors and special officers assigned to the case, virtually every policeman is working on the case by keeping his eyes open for suspects.

"In the meantime a search is being made for a group of young drug addicts, whose homes are said to be in Dorchester but later in the South End of Boston. These youths are led by a well-known hoodster whose premises were raided within the month. According to one policeman who took part in the raid a 35-caliber hot jacketed bullet, of the same type as that which killed Officer Comess, was found in the place.

They are the type, according to the police, who would have been interested in radio outfits and other "gadgets" such as an expanded tire would have occurred, which was found in the stolen automobile abandoned by the slayers of Comess.

The police are confident that at least one of the three suspects, a man arrested in Brockton, will be connected with the murder. This man answers the descriptions given of the actual slayer. He was arrested in Brockton for refusal to pay a taxi fare after he had cruised about the city for some time.

When the suspect was brought to the Brockton police headquarters he declined to talk about himself except to say that he worked at the Boston Fish Pier.

When arrested he was wearing a light cap and dark grey coat. He is described as being about 25 to 27 years old, five feet six or seven inches tall, and weighing 150 to 170 pounds.

NARROW DOWN CLUES.

On talking the police that he knew Boston, he was questioned concerning the murder of Comess, and his actions on the night of the shooting. When asked about the murder he answered: "It seems a shame to kill the Boston police officers; they are all good fellows."

He refused to tell his home address. His name is withheld.

The two other suspects are youths known to the police as having been arrested several times. They were picked up by officers of the City Point police station.

BOUGHT 'REAL SCOTCH' FOR $7 AT CAPE FARM

A farmer on Cape Cod, somewhere between Orleans and Brewster on the main highway, sold authorities Scotch whiskey for $7 a quart and three measures of French champagne for $10 in November of last year, according to testimony given today in Federal District Court.

The statement was made by William Hilton, No. 417 Atlantic street, Alton, one of eleven defendants on trial before Judge Peters and a jury in connection with the discovery, Nov. 22 last, of an $80,000 cache of liquor at Bureau Landing, Cape Brewster.

Hilton was the first offense witness to go on the stand after the government had rested its case.

His mention of the purchase of the Scotch whiskey and champagne was offered in explanation of the presence of the empty bottles in the "Love Nest" cottage, near the landing, when the place was raided by Sergeant Daniel Murphy of the State patrol.

HOLDING WEEK-END PARTY.

In direct testimony Hilton said he was an automobile mechanic and on November 21 of last year accepted an invitation from a friend in Wareham to join him in a week-end party at the "Love Nest" cottage.

About an hour after their arrival at the cottage, according to Hilton's testimony, he and another guest set out by automobile to purchase some liquor.

He testified they stopped at a filling station on the highway between Brewster and Orleans and there met a strange woman escorted down to a farmhouse where the Scotch and champagne were purchased.

Hilton said the sole occupation of his party during that time, he was told, was playing card games and money.

He described the diving "villain" of the State police on the weekend rendezvous and said he thought the raid was made because of this Sunday gaming.

The defendants on trial are William Hilton, Charles Ernest, George Barker, Byron Cassidy, Joseph Brennan, Walter H. Finn, all of Boston; Fred Hartung and Thomas R. Kelly of Fairhaven; Harry H. Stevens and Edward Young of New Bedford and Hugh Simmons of Providence.

A wife, and a daughter of twelve years, survive the veteran operator.

Nobody, Senator or Ku Kluxer, should object to that.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR. will receive from the King of Spain a "me plus ultra gold medal" struck to commemorate the flight of a Spanish airplane from Europe to South America. It is given to Mr. Rockefeller, who deserves it, for his work in fighting disease and establishing a great scientific institute.

THAT MEDAL, a "royal decoration" worth having, is considerably better than the highest of all British decorations, which is the Order of the Garter, given in memory of a son made by an English king when he picked up a garter, dropped by some woman on a ballroom floor. Some day, when this garter is handed to him, some Englishman will say: "No, thanks, I do not accept ladies' garters or any other ladies' underwear. Give me something better."

A CHARMING LADY—an American—comes from Exeter, carrying a sweet little four-pound black and tan dog—Refined, elegant little dog. It wore a silk hood on its head, a little fringed jacket buttoned tightly around its stomach and chest, a cloak of warm wool, a nice little handkerchief, used by the maid to wipe its nose and eyes. It had goggles, or shoes, of the finest kind for its four little feet. Once in a while it must run around on the ground and night hunt its toes. The kid prevents this.

This well-cared-for dog costs, the lady says, about $4,000 a year for upkeep.

Fathers bringing up a family on $1,000 a year or less are invited by earnest relatives to think and roar about this. There is no need of roaring.

Some that are too rich must be foolish with their MONEY, as many that are too poor are extremely foolish with their TIME.

The owner of the little dog would probably waste the money on herself, if he didn't spend it on the dog. What difference does it make, whether the money is wasted on the black and tan or the lady?

A score or more girls were employed in the Central Manufacturing Company while others worked in offices of dentists, jewelers, and stores.

Firemen were unable to force their way into the raging inferno. Smoke threatened to overcome any who attempted to dash through the barred doors of flames.

The girls of Fisher Business College were at their classes when it was announced, quietly, that the building was on fire. They ran from the rooms, down the long flights of stairs to the street. Workers in other sections of the building were notified and they left their offices.

The first floor of the building was occupied by the Central Cigar Shop, the Central Square Music Shop, the Modern Haberdashery, the Central Shoe Store, the Mirror Millinery Shop, a lunchroom and a barber shop.

The second floor is occupied by Dr. Harry C. Mohr, a dentist; Dr. Harry Plimman, Central Square Manufacturing Company, a jewelry store and other offices.

Son Who Cut Off Mother's Leg May Be Crazy

Detroit, March 25 (A.P.).—George Markwardt, thirty-four years old, was sent to receiving hospital for mental observation after he confessed that he had severed the right leg of his 70-year-old mother, Mrs. August Markwardt, with a butcher knife and hack saw. Markwardt and the body of his mother were found in a room at their home by neighbors.

Mrs. Markwardt had been critically ill and a post-mortem examination failed to reveal whether death occurred before or after the leg was severed.

ROBS EVERETT STORE MAN

A lone thug, today held up Dean W. Macker, manager of a grocery store at No. 178 Ferry street, Everett, at gunpoint and robbed him of $25, backed him into a rear room, and looted the cash drawer of an additional $25. Macker lives at No. 17 Salem place, Malden.

The thug entered the store and ordered a loaf of bread. While Macker's back was turned, he heard the command, "Blow 'em up" and turned to face a gun.

The gunman waved through Macker's pockets and then locked him in a back room, threatening to shoot if there was any outcry. Macker waited several minutes before notifying police.

EXPERT TELLS CHAMBER OF HAZARDS OF CREDIT

That credit, like all hazards, is an insurable risk and that it should be so treated in the case of foreign credit contracts, was the gist of talks before the New England Export Club in the lounge of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Arthur J. Wolfe of the American Manufacturers Foreign Credit Underwriters, Inc., stressed the point that foreign credits are more hazardous than domestic credits, solely because different economic factors affect the property of the foreign country than affect our own prosperity.

HARVARD BOYER GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE MAN

Though he is scheduled to battle for the light heavyweight championship of his university tonight, James Stewart French of New York, a husky freshman, did not hesitate when called upon to give up a pint of blood for a transfusion at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

French made the sacrifice in an attempt to save the life of Timothy Morrison, a Quilby business man, who is in a critical condition as the result of a recent automobile accident. The transfusion was made from French's left arm.

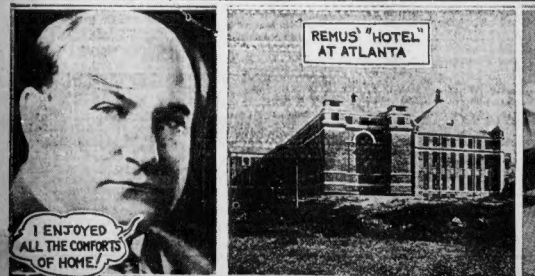

The young candidate for boxing honors feels the loss of blood will not seriously affect his chances of winning the title, although he will oppose his roommate, Lyford Hurtless, the formidable "Walking Wolf" from Wolfboro, N. H., and possibly Mike Drabinski, former football star, now a law school student.

West End Woman Wins Legal Recognition for Her Daughter

Drama invaded Suffolk Probate Court today when Mrs. Esther Marshall, an attractive woman, aged about 35, faced her two husbands while petitioning the court to annul the second marriage and to legitimize her eight-year-old daughter born of the second union.

Mrs. Marshall, who lives at No. 24 Myrtle street, West End, won her decree and the child was given over to the custody of the father, thereby legitimizing it.

Mrs. Marshall was the only witness. She testified she married the second man after her first husband deserted her and at a time when she believed he had divorced her.

In March, 1914, she said, she married Justin J. Marshall in Boston and that later he deserted her. After some time, she gained the impression that he had divorced her. He having herself free, she married Morris Berger, in February, 1917, in Toledo, and lived at various times in North Wilmington, Boston and Chicago. A child, Della, was born in Toronto in 1918.

While she was testifying Marshall was brought forward and she was asked to identify him.

"I believe he is the man," she replied. "You see I haven't seen him for such a long time."

The two husbands cast furtive glances at each other. After the court proceeding Mrs. Marshall hurried to Marshall, who smiled at her as he chatted with her.

CONFESSION IF THEY LET HIS GIRL GO

Members of "Perfect Crime" Band Are Cracking Under Strain of Silence

New York, March 26 (A.P.).—Promising to be a gangster that will startle New York, Richard Reese Whittemore of Baltimore, leader of a gang implicated in at least four murders and in robberies totalling $100,000, today sought freedom for his wife, "The Tiger Girl," indicted for a holdup of her own.

Weakened by two confessions, the six men under arrest in one of the most highly organized bands ever captured, have begun to talk. Whittemore, hitherto defiant, being the latest to "crack."

"If they will release my wife, to her out on the street, I'll stay New York with what I can tell," says. "I'll also try to live with a woman."

WHITTEMORE REQUEST.
District Attorney Nathan said would consider the request, given Whittemore would give definite information of half a dozen robberies in which $200,000 in cash and jewelry was stolen.

Jack Kramer, regarded as a "brains" of the band and the man who disposed of stolen diamonds, was also on the verge of breaking down, Nathan said.

The "perfect crime" system called by Anthony Paulino Wednesday named jewelry through whom gems were sold. Police today were searching for those men, several of whom have been recaptured as respectable business men.

SYSTEM EXPLAINED.
The confession, held up by police for thirty-six hours because it outlined a system almost feature proof, revealed that the gang operated with the precision of a business corporation. The twenty-two-page document gave details of a series of robberies and described the minute precautions taken in each case.

It revealed that the band worked a unit, each man assigned to a part and rehearsed in advance what to do in every possible situation.

Whittemore's offer to tell everything came after a visit from his father, who arrived from Baltimore and urged his son to confess.

SAVE PATIENTS AS HOSPITAL BURNS

Bridgeport, Ct., March 26 (A.P.).—Fire today destroyed the old isolation hospital west of Hillside Home, where twenty-nine patients were confined, most of them suffering with tuberculosis.

Mrs. Annie Holmes, forty-five, one of the patients removed from the burning building, died later from exposure and shock.

Through the kindness of Miss Nora Flahavan, night nurse, and Walter McNally, an orderly, everyone in the burning building was carried out.

Mrs. Holmes, who was seriously ill, was helpless in bed when the fire broke out. Miss Flahavan was taking the temperatures of the patients when McNally rushed into the ward crying out that the building was on fire.

Miss Flahavan telephoned to fire headquarters and turned her attention to the patients. She got Mrs. Holmes into a wheel chair as clouds of smoke burst into the ward and pushed her out onto the porch, and then rushed back into the building to carry out four child patients.

COMMERCE CHAMBER SUPPORTS BANK BILL
Directors of the Boston Chamber of Commerce have voted to support a bill before the Legislature allowing about 20 Boston men to organize a bank to be known as the Mortgage Bank of Massachusetts. The bank would resemble a co-operative bank in some respects and would be available for the financing of industrial and commercial projects. It would have a loan minimum of $15,000.

ROPE OF SHEETS FAILS; WOMAN HURT IN FALL

Mrs. Frances Honderdromend, twenty-two, of Columbus avenue, South end, fell twenty-five feet into the street today, when she attempted to leave her flat by means of a rope of sheets.

Her body dangled for a moment and suddenly fell to the ground as Patrolman Francis Welsh of East Dedham street station, only a few yards away, ran to her aid.

She is at the City Hospital with multiple contusions and possible internal injuries. Why she was leaving the house in such unconventional fashion has not been explained.

Her husband Albert was asleep in the room as his wife fastened together the bed clothing and prepared for the descent. Awakened by the thud of her body as it struck the ground, he sprang from bed to find the door locked and the key gone.

Mrs. Honderdromend apparently galled to tie the knots in the sheet security and the improvised rope snapped under her weight.

The thug took $40 from the till, also 15 cents and 25 shares of chain store from the manager's pocket, and before he fled locked the door so as to prevent quick pursuit.

'SHOWDOWN' IN TAYLOR DEATH INQUIRY

Los Angeles, March 26 (A.P.).—The William Desmond Taylor murder case will be dropped unless the Los Angeles county grand jury is asked to return indictments in the case when District Attorney Ayo Kravitz returns from the East, the Los Angeles Times says today.

A "showdown" will be asked in order to release the "barred" feature that caused by repeated questioning of persons believed to have possible clues as to the slayer of the motion picture director four years ago.

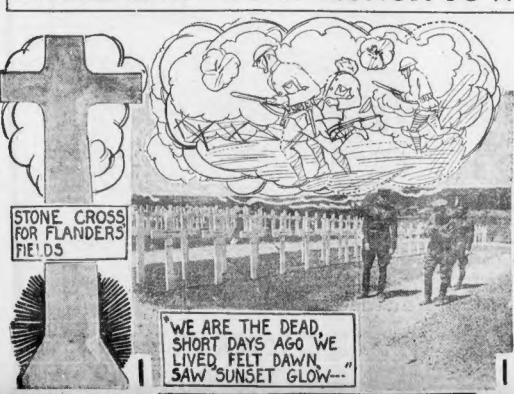

The Times declares that the grand jury will ask District Attorney Kravitz why he went East several weeks ago. It has been during Kravitz's visits in various Eastern cities that numerous stories have come up relating to his examination of possible witnesses in the Taylor case.

Demands are declared to have been made from several sources that an end be put to the repeated questioning of witnesses. Although it was not said whether Mr. Kravitz, the conscience, was among those to make such a demand, it is known that she had worried of the case, declaring that she has answered "a million questions" in an effort to assist the authorities.

EARACHE PREVENTS WALES ATTENDING STEEPCHASE
London, March 25 (A.P.).—An acute earache today prevented the Prince of Wales from seeing the grand national steeplechase, a leading turf fixture which drew a number of royalties to Liverpool today. The Prince suffered much throughout the night and it was deemed unwise for him to travel.

'STRANGE EYES' MARK ACCUSED WIFE-SLAYER

"L" Starter Tells How He Picked the Dedham Swamp Suspect

A strange look in the eyes of Stanley Klawnski, who is charged with the brutal slaying of his wife in a Dedham swamp, made such a vivid impression upon John J. Mahoney, starter at Andrew square, South Boston, that he is certain he saw Klawnski and his wife together within twenty-four hours of the murder, he declared today.

Mrs. Klawnski was slain on Thursday night a week ago, or the following morning. Mahoney said he saw her and her husband about midnight on Wednesday or Thursday. He picked Klawnski out of a line of seven when he identified the prisoner at Dedham jail.

"I could never forget his eyes," he told a Boston Evening American reporter. "There was something about them that made a lasting impression in my mind. After looking at him in the jail I am absolutely certain he is the man I saw at the Andrew station."

"The reason I paid so much attention to the couple was the late hour they were out for a walk to get to Dedham. The woman did the talking. I told her to go down to the tunnel and stand at Washington street for a train for Forest Hills. I told her I thought she would not get to Dedham on the car and I advised her to take a taxi at Forest Hills, to be sure of reaching her home."

It was a few days later that I saw a picture of the man in the paper. I said to myself, 'I've seen that face before.' I was talking to a

SHIP HITS ROCK, 418 ABOARD

London, March 24 (U.S.A.)—The Union Castle liner North Olanda, bound from London to Capetown, struck a rock off Ascension Island and was badly damaged. The ship has been wrecked and is unable to proceed and that there are no facilities for repair within 2,000 miles.

The North Olanda has 218 passengers and a crew of 130. It is understood there is no danger. The Union Castle line issued instructions to the North Olanda to proceed to Ascension Island and take off the passengers.

Ascension Island is approximately 2,000 miles off the coast of South Africa and not in the path of frequent steamships.

The North Olanda is a vessel of 1,718 tons.

MAN FALLS 60 FEET; IS DYING

Edward W. Rose, sixty-five years old, of No. 24 Kinsman street, Dorchester, is dying at Haymarket square after falling from the top of the elevator well of the building at No. 120 Atlantic avenue, where he was employed as a porter for A. M. Davis & Co.

The elevator was being loaded at the fifth floor when Rose approached the fourth floor opening to the pit in some manner he lost his balance and fell to the bottom of the pit below the first floor level.

When fellow employees of the house company reached his side he was unconscious. Surgeons at the Boston Hospital found he suffered numerous fractures, cuts and contusions.

GUYMON QUILTS
SAIL AS RICH INVENTOR

Milwaukee, Wis., March 26 (A.P.).—Six years ago Walter Guymon entered the State penitentiary at Wausau, a convicted gunman, a daring, desperate youth who believed he never had had a chance in life.

On May 18 Guymon is to be released from prison by executive order, a qualified electrical engineer and inventor of electric devices for which he holds valuable patents.

Back of the penitentiary walls where most men give up hope and fall into routine until the day comes when they go back into the world Guymon planned a new life, even though the court had ordered him confined twenty-five years.

His education had been neglected at Wausau, through a University of Wisconsin extension course, took up simple arithmetic. He had to get for the course and that meant he had to work overtime in prison.

Later he took up electrical engineering and eventually began the invention of his devices.

SHOE PLANTS
CUT ORDERS

Haverhill, March 26.—Haverhill shoe manufacturers have been forced to cancel a number of other orders to insure deliveries for Easter trading to complicated production.

All of the larger factories are running at capacity for the first time in years and the hundreds of smaller factories find themselves working overtime in an effort to take care of the Easter delivery.

With the white season about to open many of the factories faced the necessity of filling earlier orders. This was hardly expected until after the Easter rush and is a promise that the present activity in the shoe industry will last well beyond Easter.

POSSE TRAILING
'APE MAN'

Waters, R. I., March 26.—A somewhat nervous posse of citizens started out for the swampy, low search for the "ape-man," a figure grotesque and pathetic.

For two weeks this strange creature has been appearing at various spots, and some have seen his weird dance against the sky.

Just before sundown he is accused to appear on some high point, and there, apparently naked save for a sheet of cloth floating back from his shoulders, he performs his strange dance.

HATHAWAY COMPANY
ADDS MORE BAKERIES

Announcement is made at the three Greater Boston Hathaway baking plants of completion of a program of expansion.

As a result, the Hathaway business, which has been identified with the baking industry in New England for over 80 years, has been enlarged by the addition of four plants.

Alton H. Hathaway, president of the Hathaway Baking Company made the following announcement: "In pursuance of our plan to give greater service to the public and dealers, the Hathaway Baking Co. has enlarged its productive capacity by addition of two plants in Providence, R. I., and one each in Syracuse and Utica, N. Y."

"The plants in Providence are those of the Greater Baking Co. and the Greater Food Co. The plants in Syracuse and Utica are those of the Greater Baking Co."

TO EXTEND TREATMENT OF TUBERCULAR EYE CASES

Dr. John S. Howe, 24, president of the Boston Tuberculosis Association, announced today that home follow-up of patients with eye tuberculosis, formerly carried on solely in conjunction with the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, is now extended to all the other outpatient departments in the city.

The work was originally conducted by the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, and was to be discontinued because of lack of funds when it was taken over two years ago by the Boston Tuberculosis Association. Miss Isabel S. Sharpley is employed for all patients, both adults and children, for the entire city. Last year 178 patients were treated.

3 CHILDREN PLEAD FOR RUM-SELLING WOMAN

When Mrs. Helen Bourke was arraigned in William Court on a charge of selling liquor to a policeman, the infant in her arms and the two children by her side pleaded for leniency more eloquently than could any lawyer.

1—Are you in favor of the existing prohibition law? Yes, 11,111; no, 11,111.
2—Are you in favor of local option? Yes, 11,111; no, 11,111.

James H. Lonsdaley of Boston street, Boston, wrote: "The experience of General L. C. Andrews and his conclusions, after almost a year, coming from a man of his high character, should convince any thinking persons of the utter impossibility of trying to enforce a law of compulsory prohibition, crammed down the throats of a reluctant people, as a war measure, and without the men who fought the battle have the same result."

From Pittsfield, Mass., Mrs. L. Bush of Githers street, wrote: "I am a voter and property owner and consider that prohibition is ruining this country. Let the poor man have his share of R.P.A. beer."

or in one of the big steel mills or unloading the products of that mill, or mine, to be contained with a rip of the law. I assure you that the Boston Tea Party agitation was as nothing to the feeling about this unfair 13th amendment. What good will it do to keep up this farce at Washington, where government officials themselves drink the law removed? Are we not big enough and strong enough to acknowledge a mistake?" When you come short, you limit it, and when you limit it, you destroy it."

Mr. A. B. Wright: "I am not a man that cares for liquor. Nor do I like to see people under the influence of it. I am a full-blooded Yankee from Plymouth stock and have always voted the Republican ticket. This prohibition business is the most foolish law ever."

Wentworth, Edward N. L. wrote: "I am not a definite man. My work as a musician takes me to places where the prohibition law has no meaning, except as a joke. If Wayne Wheeler or any other of these high salaried hangers want a bottle of beer or whiskey there are innumerable places I can show them in Pawtucket and towns around here where they can quench their thirst. I hope the Boston American will follow the true sentiment of the people to light and help make this country once more a land of liberty and not of ridicule."

From Hixville, Vt. J. E. Gibson writes: "Being the father of five voters and actively opposed to the draconian methods of prohibition enforcement, I am one of the old school in my vote. I am also sending in three more votes."

George H. Mennery of Lake street, St. Albans, Vt. wrote: "My wife and I are American citizens and are both against the prohibition law. Both of us have served in the army and we are proud of our service. We are now in the army and we are proud of our service. We are now in the army and we are proud of our service."

John W. Mills of Keenon street, Springfield wrote: "I want to register my name again in the prohibition force that is ruining the youth of this country and causing disrespect for all law. Since prohibition, the taxes on my cottage house have mounted from $47.00 to $135.00. That shows what prohibition enforcement is doing. Change the law in a commonsense manner and bring about respect for all our laws."

OLD AGE PENSION BILL IS LOST IN SENATE

By a vote of twenty to eight, the Senate refused to substitute for an adverse committee report, a bill filed by Wendell P. Tamm for a state-wide non-contributory old age pension system.

Those voting for substitution were Senators Brewster of New Bedford, Cox of East Boston, Davenport of Barnstable, Francis of Charlestown, Hennessey of Dorchester, Martin of Stoughton, Stoughton of Hingham, and Nelson of Worcester.

ELEVEN CARS BURNED IN PITTSFIELD FIRE

Pittsfield, March 26.—Fire of unknown origin did damage estimated at $10,000 to Knight's auto repair shop at No. 18 Clinton avenue. Eleven cars were burned. The building is owned by Brewer brothers.

LA HEROES TO DENIES HE IS BE HONORED 'PEEPING TOM'

New Haven, March 24.—Harry Mooney, caught in a liquor raid and who confessed to being the "Peeping Tom" who had terrorized girl students at the New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics now repudiates his confession, and says it was forced upon him by the police by the third degree method.

After his confession an alienist examined Mooney and gave it as his opinion that he is sane. Then Mooney repudiated the confession which also had included an admission of an attack upon Mrs. Henry Dorman.

has returned to Alden Park from a long vacation in Europe, and will be at 710 Arling Cross.

Betty Alden

BEAUTIFUL DAMASKS of various designs, golden yellow, vivid green and luscious rose tones; tapestries intricately woven; translucent glasses of delicate Venetian design and tint made specially for the school; jewelry and other wares, and color to the scene.

VERY CHOICE BITS of the collection gathered during a summer's wandering into remote hamlets by Mr. Grosset of the school are two English highboys of rare wood and design and a set of three English highboys of rare wood and design and a set of three English highboys of rare wood and design.

AN UNUSUALLY FINE assortment of tables; some rush-bottomed chairs from the mountains just above Granada. In Spain, a wrought iron altar piece of unusual design and coming from a church near Naples, a brocade and tapestry bedspread that once covered the bed of a Spanish Grandee may still be seen and purchased.

PROMINENT MATTINGS of the smart set are being a woman's service in the way of art and carrying on the exhibition and sale. Mrs. Henry Lyman, Arthur Cabot, Samuel Cabot, Richard Eaton, Robert Peabody, James Russell and Charles Prince.

THE ROLL OF those interested in the sale includes Mrs. George H. If Your Easter Suit Comes from Franklin's—it will be Tailored ALREADY--Franklin's new standard of clothes making has proven its merit. Hundreds and hundreds of men and young men have proclaimed the new and better tailoring features as really reliable. They have discovered there is a difference in tailoring! It is our creed to tailor and sell clothing in such a manner that any man, regardless of position, can buy it. We actually believe that any garment in our entire stock represents less selling cost and more value by $10 to $20 than any other brand of clothing in any other store in this city.

On the Inside The illustration below shows a few of the many vital points of inner construction—that makes Franklin's style stay put despite wear and weather. First you find a high grade, pliable canvas—A genuine Hymolapel—Duo stitched, triple braced pocket flaps—will not sag or tear! A thin, cold water shrunk tape around the entire edge prevents puckering—Collars are hand felled and hand shaped. Buttonholes in every coat are made by hand—and many other hand operations that were formerly only part and parcel of a custom made garment.

On the Outside The fabrics from the foremost woolen mills in America! Suitings include—Hard finished Worsteds—Unfinished Worsteds—Cassimeres—Cheviots—Tweeds—Wide Wale—Serges and a host of novelty weaves—many exclusive with Franklin. They are all here and they are all right.

SENATORS TAKE ON OLD FOES SATURDAY

Borke Harris and his Washington Senators will meet the New York Giants in the first of a three-game series, starting in Florida tomorrow. The Senators went all-out against Patsy during the three games, but worked for the Dodgers at Clearwater yesterday. The Giants blanked the Indians at St. Louis.

It looks as if Luke Sewell will be the regular catcher for this season, but he is injured this coming season, but still showing desirable ability in the field.

The St. Louis Browns will clash with the Buffalo Bisons at Palmetto today. This will provide exercise for George Siler's tribe.

The St. Louis Cardinals left Austin, Tex., and they will oppose the Waco club this afternoon. Blanton is now using a catcher's mitt at first base, his hand having been injured in a San Antonio exhibition contest recently.

Old Jack Quinn was selected by Connie Mack to start against the Baltimore club, and his mount, performance showed, his mount, performance showed, his mount, performance showed.

Holy Cross Has First Workout

Worcester, Mass., March 25.—The Holy Cross diamond candidates had their first outdoor workout of the season today on the plot of ground back of the grandstand at Fenway Field. The regular players took it too water-soaked to afford any kind of footing for Coach Jack Barry's aspirants.

The way some of the candidates performed will probably influence Barry's selection of the men to make the Southern trip which starts April 1st. Most of the aspirants trying out for positions were strange to each other and hence could not show to good advantage in the Fenway enclosure. Today's workout, however, was just like playing in their home grounds to these young stars, and the entire squad looked good.

COME in now and pick a hat that has Spring written all over it. All the new colors, chamels, pearl, cloud grey, sand tan and woodland browns.

You'll be surprised at the quality and pleased with the price.

JACK HORNER WINS ENGLISH RACE CLASSIC

By CHARLES A. SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Liverpool, Eng., March 24.—Jack Horner today won the Grand National, the world's greatest steeplechase event.

Successfully making all the sixteen jumps, including the famous "water jump" over a two and a half foot fence and twining and a half foot of water, Jack Horner came home a winner, with Old Taybridge finishing second and Brights Boy third.

Jack Horner won a great victory for America, for this horse is owned by C. Schwartz of Detroit, who purchased it two weeks ago for $10,000. It is estimated that the purse won today by Jack Horner will amount to $10,000.

Two American horses were in the money, for Brights Boy, which finished third, is owned by H. (Lal) Stanford, who won the Grand National several years ago with Sergeant Murphy.

The steeplechase prize was won by Horner—5:11.1 (Old Taybridge—5:11.1, Brights Boy—5:13.1).

Old Taybridge started as a favorite with sports but was unable to pass Jack Horner and finished second.

Marquette Plays B. A. A. Tonight

A season's hockey finale of great proportions is before hockey fans tonight at the Arena tonight and tomorrow night. The most important of the twin bill finds B. A. A. and Marquette battling for the championship of the Eastern Hockey Club. In the other game the Bruins, strengthened by the acquisition of Hootie Hootie and Billy Bower of the Canadiens will tackle the Portland, Ore. Rosebuds of the Western Pro League.

The Port Marquette players fire up their superior team work will give them a scoring edge over the B. A. A. in the two games.

With Hootie Hootie and Billy Bower in the forward berth the Bruins are well fortified to hold the slender Portland, Ore. Rosebuds.

DEMPSEY HELD FOR SPEEDING

Fresno, Cal., March 25 (A.P.)—Jack Dempsey today faced the possibility of a jail term for speeding in Madera County with his automobile.

Dempsey and his chauffeur, Robert A. Gates of Los Angeles, were arrested by a county traffic officer yesterday after a five-mile chase. The officer charged they had averaged 55 miles an hour, their speed ranging from 45 to 55 miles an hour.

Dempsey was accompanied by his wife, the former Estelle Taylor. They were on their way to Los Angeles. Dempsey and Gates were cited to appear before a justice of the peace.

Sande Rides to Victory

Tia Juana, Mexico, March 25.—Earl Sande first little triumph of the Tia Juana winter season. He took his first mount today in the Tia Juana Handicap, a Calfrank Handicap event. Sande was astride Berandean, of the La Brea Stable.

Sande and Sande were third. He worked on out the mile and a quarter, the Calfrank distance is 2:08. Berandean's time for the first mile was 1:21.54, the fastest ever run on a Tia Juana course, save by Carina.

TOSSES WRONG TOWEL. BEATEN MAN WINS

New York, March 25 (A.P.)—An appointed second round fight in the strong contest for the right to meet night and as a result a boxer who was beaten in a round round the award of the bout on a technicality. It all happened at a water court where Roy McMillan beat George Hafferty so badly in two rounds that Reginald Doctor Caruba decided that enough was sufficient.

But he went to McMillan's corner and threw in McMillan's towel, whereupon the referee awarded the fight to the winner. The Hafferty incident, the official story is to give, even after the bout is committed to the referee. He claimed that McMillan's corner should have prevented an outsider from interfering with their business.

CHAMP OUT TO COMBAT GEORGIAN

Billy Gibson, the Manager of Title-Holder, Willing to Stage Battle Before Any Club

New York, March 26 (A.P.)—Young Stribling of Georgia continues on the divert route to honor in heavyweight boxing, who a Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo again has been turned from the main thoroughfare Stribling, just up from the State of Miami, where his match with Gene Tunney was cancelled for lack of financial resources, last night in Madison square Garden outpointed and outlasted the man who two years ago defeated him in a six round contest. Weight raised the verdict, in the final analysis, with the Georgian, ten pounds heavier than Slattery.

Today Tunney again bows before Stribling, and Billy Gibson, manager of the American light-heavyweight champion, says that the match can be made by a promoter of standing any time.

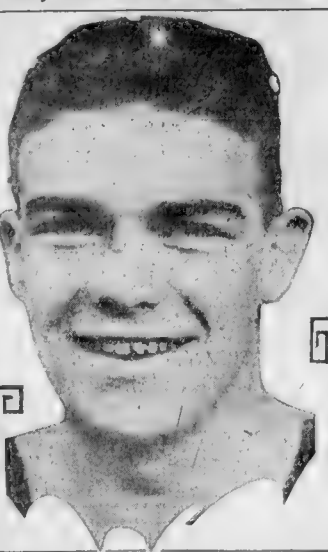

"Indorse or out suite me," said Tunney, "and I am not demanding $500 for Tunney's appearance, as reported."

The battle may be staged for May 1 at the Garden or may wait the spring of the baseball parks. It is more than probable that Tex Rickard will be behind it this time. For more than half of the distance of the fight neither man appeared to have any appreciable advantage, but in the seventh the Georgian loosed a powerful right that had Slattery ceding and in the minds of many only the bell saved him from a knockout. He came back, however, a savior his adversary in the ninth was fighting with both hands on the belt and Stribling was awarded the decision by the referee who was one Judge J. J. Slattery.

19,000 See Him Win

One of the Garden's record crowds failed to get the thrills expected from the Slattery and Stribling bout last night. There were 19,250 paid admissions, which means a total attendance of 100 over 19,000 people. The gross receipts were $46,275 and the net receipts $75,432. The only two Garden shows to outdraw this one were the Merlenbach-Delany and Grah Flowers world's championship battles.

Mat Fiasco Causes Riot In Chicago

Chicago, March 26 (U.S.N.)—When 3,000 fans pay upwards of $5,000 to see a wrestling show, they want a show and nothing else but, and Paul Pefelski today in explanation of last night's fiasco that unruly wrecked the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium.

Pefelski, manager of Hans Steinler, was the only "survivor" of the riot who could be found today. Wladek Zyzanski and Renato Gardini had been advertised to grapple in a final match. After they had flopped around for 18 minutes and the Pefelski had pinned the Italian's shoulders to the mat, a furious voice announced that the show was over. Then the fireworks began. The Irish cash customers yelled for a refund. Then someone hurled a chair into the ring. Others followed and in a short time the place was a wreck.

BANNY PICKS VARSITY SQUAD

By NICK FLATLEY
St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26.—The big squad that Manager Dave Danforth has been looking over down in these parts, has been split up, and from here in there will devote all his efforts to the young men who rate the laurels. The rest of the boys have been shuffled around to Proff and Lorch, the two boys' farnas.

There were a few surprises in the selections, which aren't final, but as close to that as is possible at this early stage of the building season. Bill Cronin, the young catcher from Newton, who made a hit in the Eastern League, will go back to Providence for a while. It was a bit of a surprise to come up with him. Oscar Brown, a brave last year, was going to try things at Proff. Since, according to pass, Oscar can't throw as well as a big league prospect, and it was figured that a year in the past minors might prove him.

But Oscar is a temperamental youth. He balked at signing to contract this spring, and he didn't like a steer when he heard he was going to Rhode Island. Bill Cronin, who was trying for Babe Marquard's team, kicked over the traces and left camp. He wanted as much money as a big leaguer. That left the Braves with but a single catcher. Joe Givens.

Manager Marquard didn't want the rest of the boys as a catcher, but he was asked to give over with Cronin. Bill, who has sense as well as plenty of ability agreed to go back to the Eastern League. So Seiner was held with the Braves. He will probably linger until some good man can be grabbed by Providence. Then young Cronin will come.

Two games for Fall River, whose lead in the American League has been cut to 10 runs, came in the two important league games in New England today. The champions will meet the P. D. C. at the New York Stadium and the Braves at the Rhode Island capital today. The game between a hotly fought New England will find Boston at home, Saturday, taking it up with Detroit.

Accuracy Keynote for Shortstop

This is the fourteenth and final installment of a series of stories by college baseball stars on how to play the various positions and how to make good on the diamond.

By BILL CONSIDINE
"ACCURACY is the keynote of a shortstop's play" is the way that Fred Monowier of Boston College describes play between third base and second base. "It has to be accurate in everything that he does or else he's making errors of one sort or another."

Before a college ball game, the shortstop should watch the visiting team in their batting practice. He has to use accuracy there. If he does he can catalogue the way that the various hitters do their stuff. This will help him put a bit in the field as the college players only face one another twice a year at the most and they have no chance to find out each other's weaknesses. By watching batting practice the shortstop is able to find out just where he should play his man in the field.

"YOU can use a little sure knowledge in playing the man at bat, if you know what your pitcher is going to throw up. The system of signals helps the shortstop out. With a right-handed hitter at the plate, a curved ball will go toward left field and a fast ball will go quite near to second base. The same is vice versa on a left-handed hitter. That's why you see the shortstop shift his position on different pitched balls."

"Out in the field, the shortstop should try to keep his entire body behind his hands on as many plays as he can. It stops the ball, if the hands should let it go through. But the shortstop should make ball to the Cops."

GIRLS COMPETE IN BIG MEET AT MALDEN

By STEED CHANDLER
The local girl athletes, who have been active all winter, not alone in competition, but in record breaking as well, will perform Saturday evening in the Malden Y. M. C. A. at the women's indoor track meet, which is to be staged under the auspices of the New England A. A. U.

The games, which are to include six open events, will bring out most of the stars who have become familiar figures in women's athletics during the past year. Miss Katherine Meeks, holder of four records, will be seen in the 100 yard dash, the high jump, and on the relay team of the Boston Swimming Association. In the 100 yard dash will be Grace Cameron of New York and Mary McDonald of St. Mary's.

Mabel Morrissey and Hermine Unbeheld will represent the B. A. in the 200 yard dash, competing against such stars as Gertrude Bund of Malden and Ruth Kohler of the Boston Athletic School.

Boxing Chatter

Let us wish our New England boxing team success in the national junior boxing championships which are being held in Philadelphia today and tomorrow. A fine lot of boys weight boxer, a meeting some tough President Bill Kenney of the N. E. A. A. U., and Coach Al Lacey.

Boston Y. M. H. A. has been awarded the New England wrestling championship this year. This event will be staged on Saturday, April 3, at the Y. M. H. A. gymnasium, Roxbury street, Roxbury. Bouts will be held in the 112, 118, 125, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweight classes. Entries close on April 1 with R. Y. M. H. A., No. 148 Beaver street, Roxbury.

New England waterweight champion, Al Mello of Lowell, will go going on April 8 with Pete Hartley of New York at the champion's home city, Lowell, at the Crescent Rink, which show is being run under the direction of the Triangular.

Johnny Buckley's boy, Ray Cross of St. Albans, the former amateur light-weight boxer is meeting some tough ops of the ring when he opposes Billy Nelson of Brooklyn on Monday night at the Casino A. C. Lynn.

EHMKE IN FINE TRIM, WILL PITCH OPENER FOR RED SOX

'MAKES IT LOOK EASY,' SAYS GIL

Hose Break Camp Monday, Play Gulpport, Then Off for Mobile for Three Days

By JACK CONWAY.

NEW ORLEANS, March 26—

"Ehmke makes pitching look easy." We overheard this remark made by Larry Gilbert, manager of the Red Sox, as he stood on the bench at the Pelicans' bench as the Red Sox mound was turned back the opportunity. It was interesting to watch how graciously and with such apparently little effort Ehmke disposed of the opposing batters. He did not seem to be exerting himself any more than he would be toiling the ball up to his team mates in batting practice.

It is much the same with all great pitchers. The late Christy Mathewson never appeared to be under stress when in the box. The same is true of Walter Johnson. Ehmke is using his head as well as his arm when in the box. He usually manages to think faster than the batter. That is why he is one of the leading pitchers in the major leagues.

Ehmke is looking forward to the most successful season of his spectacular career. Standing six feet three inches in height he has had difficulty in building up his weight. He was only 175 pounds last season. This year finds him weighing around 190 pounds and as hard as the added pounds will enable him to stand up to a grueling campaign and get more power behind his pitches. With the opening of the season about three weeks away, Ehmke is ready to go in and pitch the full distance at top speed. He went seven inings against New Orleans the other day and could have hurled the entire game if it had been necessary. You can write it down in your diary that Ehmke will pitch the opening game of the season for the Red Sox against the Yankees on April 15.

THE Sox are preparing to break camp here Monday morning. The team will play at Gulpport on Monday afternoon and then enroute for Mobile where it will show on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the first of a four game series will be staged at Louisville. Then on to Boston for a tussle with the Braves on April 8.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER A. HORTON

In the address, in order to get the back swing connected up rightly, move the left arm extended outward, somewhat toward a vertical line with the shaft, and see to it that the right elbow is tucked in toward the under side of the shaft—not that low, of course, but tucked in in that direction. This gets the right arm in the place where it stays for a purpose. With the left arm over the clubhead and, as it is swung back, the right arm is in the position to follow through.

SOLOMON HAS MANY FRIENDS IN THE HUB

Jack Sharkey of Brighton, who has twice been crowned champion of New England in the heavyweight class, has been selected to battle King Solomon of Panama in the feature ten-round bout of the night at A. C. which match is to take place in Mechanics Building on April 1.

Some few weeks ago Sharkey was matched to meet McCarthy and he stepped over to Godman and met Eddie Hoffman of the Pacific Coast. He pounded Hoffman so hard that he broke a small bone in his hand and Sharkey was forced to call his boxing match here with the Roxbury Adonis.

That made both Pat McCarthy and his manager, Jim McDonald, very much perturbed and Manager McDonald went about telling everyone what a quitter the New England champion was. Today the show is a the order of 10 with Manager McDonald at 11 at McCarthy. In the meantime, some that believe in sport, that they see Tommy Godman as the better man, and George Lawrence and signs up King Solomon to come here to fill the bill. The fans like to see a man for his ability and gentleness.

FIGHTS I CAN'T FORGET

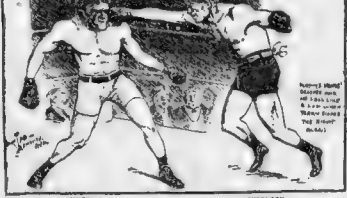

by TWO America's Greatest Boxing Authority

HOW McGOVERN PUT MURPHY OUT IN ONE ROUND

THIS is the third of a series of famous fights covered by TWO, the greatest sporting cartoonist and leading author on pugilism in this country. TWO has covered all the big fights held in this country for the past thirty years.

"It's all off" yelled Referee McLaughlin as he jumped into the ring putting Terry McGovern away from Tommy Murphy, who lay helpless on the ropes in the first round after being battered to the floor five times from the Brooklynite's crushing welts at the National Club, Philadelphia, on October 16, 1908.

It was more like a scene from a madhouse than anything else when the fight was stopped to save Murphy, from what seemed a fatal end. Murphy had crawled faintly to his feet time after time as Terry belted him on the jaw, and was dragging his feet along the ropes when the referee humanely jumped in between them and dragged the tiger-like McGovern away and pronounced him the winner.

MURPHY

Even then Terry didn't seem to realize that it was over. He tried to get up the referee.

It was a whirlwind fight, one that was no feat that to follow the punches was an impossible task. Joe Humphries yelled to Terry just before the first bell, "Remember, don't shake hands; that is undignified. Remember, now, right at him, put out your hands!"

Terry heard. Terry was all ears for the yell. It clanged and he rushed over toward Murphy, who extended his right hand. Terry took no notice of it, but wrangled a left which, luckily for the Harlem boy, was a bit high and hit him on top of the head.

Tommy backed away as Terry waded in and they got in a neutral corner, where there was a rally. Murphy got out of it nicely and as McGovern stepped back shot in a right uppercut that caught Terry fairly on the chin, and he stood still as though paralyzed.

He quickly recovered and got to close, belting Tommy in the ribs. Murphy was not distressed in the least, and shot in another right to the jaw.

Terry looked good and was holding his own against the "Terrible One." They got out to the knees of the ring and were as still as though posing for a picture.

Terry was on his toes ready to jump, while Murphy waited the rush, and it seemed was ready to let fly with either hand. Like a flash Terry feinted with the left and quicker than that he was right dived over on Murphy's jaw and he reeled over on his back. Tommy slowly got on his knees and before the referee had counted five was reeling around, his eyes knowing where Terry was. He was game and was willing to fight, but nature was against him. Terry rushed at him and dived him again with another right.

Murphy fell forward on his face and it looked as though he was done for. He moved over on his back and got up again. Terry's eyes stuck out. He was like a second after a hare. He was on a helpless antagonist again in a second and sent him headlong to the mat once again with a left on the point of the chin.

Once again Murphy arose and reeled toward the ropes with his back to Terry. The latter reached over his back and sent a crushing right to the ear, and down went the game

MEDBURY SAYS

By John P. Medbury

AN Illinois man has gone into the business of washing animals. People can now send their dogs and cats to the laundry.

IT'S wonderful to be able to have your laundry sponged and pressed.

ONE woman sent her poodle to this fellow and he came back full of laundry marks.

HE mistook the dog for a shirt and saved five buttons on him.

NOT only that, but he was darned in three places.

THE poor canine looked terrible. The laundry ironed him the wrong way.

HE also forgot to starch his tail.

AND his ears came back with rough edges on them.

EVEN this dog laundry says its "backstage mixed." One woman sent two fox terriers and they returned shape flounders with bouncers.

ANOTHER lady complained that her Pomeranian was torn to shreds.

THEY washed him all right but they forgot to mend him.

ONE fellow got so tired of paying laundry bills that he had his dog dyed black so that the dirt wouldn't show.

THE laundry charges according to the size of the animal. You can have three Pomeranians washed for the price of one Police dog.

Answer to Boy—Will you hold my horse until I get his weight?

Small City Boy—What do you take me for, a fish with scales?

DAILY SHORT STORY

OUT OF THE WOODS

By William M. Robinson

LILLIAN BRADFORD sat on the piazza of the House of Dreams, her calm blue eyes gazing far out over the treetops to the distant purple hills. At her elbow, his tumbled gray mane bent toward her, Dr. William Parker, the country physician of the neighborhood, frowned kindly eyes, earnest, was gently remonstrating with her. You are not dealing fairly by your own life," he said, "living off here alone. You need companionship, sympathy. Marry me, Lillian, and let me teach you how much of happiness a life can hold."

Grateful Warmth

She tore her eyes from the wide vista to face him. A wave of grateful warmth surged about her heart at sight of his honest face. He was so understanding, so dependable. After all, why not marry Dr. Bill? She did not love him, true; but for this prematurely aged man, ten years her senior, she held an admiration and respect amounting almost to reverence.

For the thirteen years of her voluntary exile in this wild hill country, she had labored shoulder to shoulder with him in the effort to relieve the poverty and pain of the obdurate mountaineers. Lillian visioned the satisfaction which would inevitably come to her

He, wedded to a man of his forthright and tenderness. Love itself might come at last, perhaps, to still the throbbing of the wound which all these years she had been nursing in secret. But something within her laid a damping hand on the flame of her impulse, and a voice whispered in her heart, "Wait." So it had always been—wait, wait, wait. Gently she took his great rough hand between her own fragile palms. Tears welled into her eyes as she answered, "I cannot answer you, Doctor Bill; something tells me to wait just a little longer. I must heed the voice of my heart. But it is hard, very hard, for me to deny you who are deserving of so much."

Always Waiting

He patted her hand reassuringly. "Take your time, dear," said Dr. Bill. "You know I am always waiting."

When the doctor had descended by the woods, Lillian's eyes turned back to the miles of miles of rolling woods sweeping away from the base of the woods. Lillian had named, one, two, then three, with no word from the ill-starred party. A revere expedition, five years later, had found his story, his rifle and kit left in the jungle among a heap of bleaching human bones. Without doubt, they said, he had perished.

As the years passed Lillian had found partial forgetfulness and a kind of quiet satisfaction had been hers. The world in which she lived, her money, her time and the strength of body and soul she had devoted to the pathetic helplessness of this mountain people, the good

Dr. Parker were his. On the cliff edge, somewhat removed from her solitary house, she had directed them to build the little white house with its piano for the wild summer season when the treetops gleamed with their burden of fleecy snow. In the House of Dreams, for short space at least, he could be as one wanted him.

Flaming Welcomes

The dusty green of the September woods had given way to the flaming yellows and reds of Autumn. Men and boys would be out in the woods now with guns on shoulder, dog at heel, intent on the work of slaughter. But high up on the lone cliff, no number of rifle or shotgun disturbed Lillian. Day by day, she finished her simple household tasks to fare forth to the little cabin with book or sewing.

Once, as she stepped to the little front porch, she started back in alarm. The form of a man, dressed in hunting clothes, crouched on the boards, motionless. A great, open gash on the head, only partially concealed by a dirty cloth, told the story. A stranger, do doubt, wounded by accident wandering down in the endless woods. She stepped into the grime-covered face and, as her judgment plucked her the features under the coating of dirt, the blood seeped from her own face. How the stranger's face, the man's hollow eyes opened, flickered with remaining consciousness. "Lillian," he whispered, and bared into unconsciousness.

"Only a flesh wound," pronounced Dr. Bill. "Considerable loss of blood and nervous shock. He'll be in bed for a few weeks." He turned to grasp both her hands and look into her eyes. "I'm glad, Lillian—for your sake," he said heartily.

"You know, then?"

"I guessed—from the expression in your eyes."

With tender hands Lillian nursed Stephen Duane back to life. Daily she went about the numerous small tasks of the sickroom with a little song on her lips, her eyes like two

"It is a lucky man who can bring his hand to his eyes," said Dr. Bill, wistfully, "a man far above the measure of ordinary manhood."

"You do not know how far above," Lillian replied.

When Stephen regained his voice he said for long he placed out the words, "Lillian," she cried, "let me introduce you husband and wife. We are to be married next month—that is, if he'll still have me."

And really, she had very little trouble to persuade him to do so.

A Square Deal for the Boston Airport

The Government on Beacon Hill Owes That to the People of Massachusetts

Pending before the Massachusetts Legislature is a bill to extend the present lease to the Federal Government of the small acreage included within the limits of the Boston Airport from ten to twenty-five years.

This extension is essential if any more money of the people of the United States is to be expended in developing the small landing field at Jeffries Point into an airport adequate to serve the needs of the Nation, the Region, the State, and Private Enterprise.

Until the Government on Beacon Hill abandons its attitude of public indifference and secret hostility toward the development of the Boston Airport, the Government at Washington will not sanction the expenditure of a nickel of the $350,000 provided in the priority program of the War Department for the upbuilding of what was designed to be the regional airport of the New England neighborhood of States.

Unless the Government on Beacon Hill soon demonstrates a willingness to support, wholeheartedly, all agencies, public and private, that are patiently awaiting the opportunity to co-operate with the Federal Government in the development of the Boston Airport, the Government at Washington is disposed to withdraw its support from the Boston Airport and select another situation in a part of New England more hospitable to Aviation for development as the regional airport of this corner of the country.

For the Federal Government to be compelled by the public servants of Massachusetts to abandon the Boston Airport would be a public calamity from every standpoint.

It is high time that the people of Massachusetts should be informed of the facts in the case. They should fix the blame where it belongs in case this calamity comes about.

Not only should the Boston Airport's lease to the Federal Government be promptly and willingly extended, but the comparatively small sum of $25,000, necessary to light the Boston Airport for night flying, should be authorized by the Government on Beacon Hill without another week's delay.

It is an insult to the intelligence of the people of Massachusetts, as well as an injury to the people of the United States, of all the New England States, for the public servants of this great Commonwealth to permit so promising a development, so vital a natural resource as the Boston Airport, to be sacrificed to the petty jealousies of rival politicians on Beacon Hill.

"Best Seats, Two Dollars"

John Golden's Experiment

In the experiment he is making at the Hollis Street Theatre in this town, Mr. John Golden is asking two questions: "1.—DOES the theatre-going public really desire a return of the two-dollar 'show'?"

"2.—Given an attraction of the first order, fittingly presented by a company of first-class players, WILL our old public of the theatre come out again?"

It is our opinion that, while the unusually good or the particularly well presented play will for some time to come continue to be liberally patronized at prevailing prices, there is a great public which has not been patronizing the drama simply because they could not afford to.

The average playgoer buys two tickets, at least. If he is young and lives in town, there are also two late supper to be bought. And then there are the taxi fares.

Many believe a return of the two-dollar scale will bring thousands back to the spoken drama. To determine whether this is true, Mr. Golden has brought to Boston one of his most successful plays, "Seventh Heaven," and is offering it with one of his very best companies.

This, we believe, is important news. A friendly and public-serving newspaper can do no more, and should do no less, than bring it conspicuously to the attention of the public.

About Prohibition

Cardinal O'Connell Observes

Cardinal O'Connell, back from a thirty-day cruise in the Caribbean Sea on the Royal Mail liner Ohio, reports an absence of drunkenness, or excessive drinking, in the various places he visited not yet reached by prohibition. Having made it his business to observe conditions, the Cardinal reported signs of generally temperate living, adding "they have reached this attitude by education, not by intimidation or coercion which tells us we must or must not do this or that."

Men must learn to control themselves, without coercion from others. Progress in that direction may seem slow, but the human race is young. The earth is hundreds of millions of years old, and it will last hundreds of millions of years more, and the human race is only 12,000 years from the Stone Age.

Give us time.

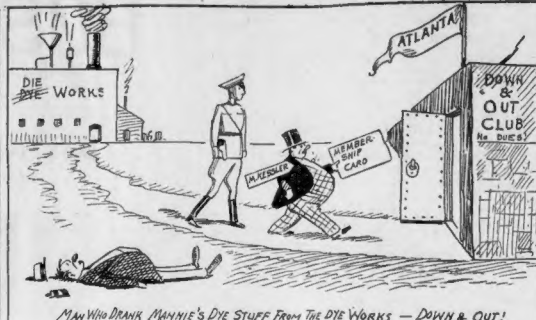

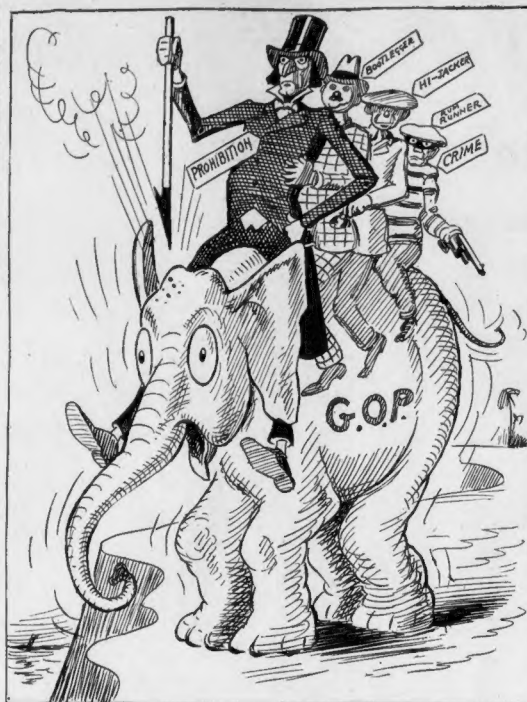

Everybody, at all once, wants to know about prohibition, how it is working? The Senate has ordered PUBLIC hearings on prohibition. Five plans for modifying the Volstead act are now before the Senate. The light wine and beer mirage may suddenly turn into REAL light wine and beer.

Certain wise gentlemen are buying up breweries that were so dismantled at the beginning of the great stride.

Trying to Shake Them Off

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"BUT I suppose I've had to go through all this suffering because I had such a happy youth. I couldn't expect so much joy without paying for it."

So Laura ended her frantic letter of apology. I'm not going to answer the main part of the letter. All the unhappy ones which Laura relates shrink into insignificance beside the tragedy of that paragraph. Everything else could be regulated were it not for the attitude shown by that last paragraph. That's the paragraph I'm going to answer, not only for Laura but for thousands of unfortunate spirits who believe, as she does, that we must pay, through suffering, for all our happiness, and that there's something holy in pain.

If there's a damnable theory on earth, that's it! One need not only invoke religion to prove the outrageous nature of this theory. One has only to consult psychology and common sense. Health and happiness aren't accidental, ecstatic experiences for which we must pay 'bribe' as we say for all departures from the normal program. Health and happiness ARE the normal program.

We were meant to be healthy and happy because health and happiness afford the ideal conditions for growth. And growth is the aim of our physical and mental and moral world.

We do not know much about the nature or plan of God and our conceptions of Him differ. Humanity has had a thousand names for Him, but whatever the conception or name, one thing is sure—GOD BACKS LIFE. He is life. He WANTS life. He builds up and up and up. He doesn't tear down. He wants more of us, not less of us. God does not wreck human life. Laura, God has not wrecked your life. Human ignorance and cruelty have wrecked it, and your own refusal to use the brain you were born with.

You may not believe me. Probably you won't. It's so much easier to blame our disasters on a God than it is to shoulder responsibilities ourselves. But you'll have to consider it yourself, girl. If ever you wish to straighten your tangled life.

Stop hugging your grief, stop being a martyr. You're not getting anywhere with either God or humanity by such auto-intoxication. Nobody is gloving and thinking you've been selected as a burnt offering. Some of our slickest apothem functions in that guise.

Stop wallowing in this black orgy of superstition and begin to act like a civilized citizen. Snap out of the attitude that's wrecking your life and make a fresh start. Now that you realize you aren't earning any credit by being a human crowd, it will be easy for you to see the way.

STOP MAGNIFYING THE CLOUDS IN YOUR SKY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The human emotions have the right of way. Death, the great leveler, makes us realize how insignificant are all our differences. Love and hope and laughter, like Red Grange, break through all the lines of opposition and have their way with us.

We may think we live in superior and exclusive classes, but sometimes a little microbes stealing out from the sick room of the poor over to Fifth Avenue, or a note of laughter caused by some ridiculous incident, or the dread appearance of the great reaper, makes us realize that after all all humanity is one.

We are surrounded on all sides by common enemies, sickness, microbes, insects, poisons, and other forces of nature. It would seem to be the part of common sense for human beings to forget their differences and unite against their enemies.

In the presence of natural evils we realize how absurd it is for the human race to separate into divisions warring upon one another.

We are one in our enjoyments, one in our dangers, one in all the essentials of life.

HUMAN EMOTIONS GREAT UNIFIERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is said that one touch of nature makes the whole world akin.

As a matter of fact one touch of any of the human instincts tends to show us how much we are all alike and makes our artificial differences seem ridiculous.

Let any of the big human passions touch one of the actors in a spirited contest and immediately the contest ceases and there is the unity of sympathy.

Some time ago the country was absorbed in the Harry Thaw murder trial. Most people were against him and some people were very much put out that he was not killed by the law.

A recent item in the papers tells of his sitting at the bedside of his dying mother and holding her hand. All history, all guilt, and all memory of past wrongs disappear before this picture of a dying mother and her child.

There were many who were envious of Rudyard Kipling and some who attacked his works. All have been silenced and the whole world held its breath when it was announced that Kipling was dying.

The human emotions have the right of way. Death, the great leveler, makes us realize how insignificant are all our differences. Love and hope and laughter, like Red Grange, break through all the lines of opposition and have their way with us.

We may think we live in superior and exclusive classes, but sometimes a little microbes stealing out from the sick room of the poor over to Fifth Avenue, or a note of laughter caused by some ridiculous incident, or the dread appearance of the great reaper, makes us realize that after all all humanity is one.

ARE YOU DRIFTING AWAY FROM YOUR OWN FAMILY

Have you drifted away from your kin folks? Perhaps you have been more successful than other members of your family, you may be in a higher grade of society.

They are not accustomed to the class of people who are congenial to you and with whom you mingle, so you don't want them to visit you.

You fear that you might lose the standing you now have if you had to introduce certain members of your family.

All you want of your family is to let you alone. In a word you are denouncing those to whom you are bound by ties of blood which should be the strongest ties in the world.

And for what? For friendships which may not be more than a passing interest in you, something soon to fade, especially should you lose the financial standing you have gained or you were in need of physical help.

In case of want to whom would you go, to relatives or to friends? True it is that in some cases friends would do more for you than relatives, but these cases are rare.

Driven to extremity, it is likely that you would look for the love and interest which only members of your family could give.

What Should the Public School Teach?

EVERYTHING That a Child Should Know

The hope of this country's future, the noblest institution of today, is THE AMERICAN PUBLIC SCHOOL. Every American should support it with his vote, his influence, in every way.

You hear it said that public schools teach "fads." That is the complaint of men that object to being taxed for public education. If it were possible, they ought to be taxed four times as much as others to teach them patriotism.

The public school should teach everything that children need to know, NOT merely reading, writing, spelling, a little arithmetic and geography.

A woman, writing of the public schools in California, says: "It was a great pleasure to visit one of the domestic science classes of the public schools and see little girls of nine and ten learning to cook. It will do more than any one other thing to improve the health of the coming generation. These small future housekeepers are learning how to prepare food so that it will be wholesome. They are taught correct foods to eat, and why. With them the feeding of their families will be scientific, and not a hit-or-miss proposition. They also will learn how to arrange a kitchen so as to save time, labor and strength, and they will want all the modern conveniences so that they can do their work as easily as possible and have time to give to their families."

Domestic science, cooking, housekeeping, the principles of common sense eating and living, should be taught in every public school. The public school should teach not only cooking and housekeeping, but in the high school grades the care of infants. And, above all, there should be taught the DIGNITY OF MOTHERHOOD, the fact that it is the noblest of all "professions," and, with the possible exception of PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHING, the most important of all work.

Boys in public schools should be taught to use their hands, to use tools. That is specially necessary in cities, where boys grow up never seeing a hammer, nail or a piece of wood, never using them.

Many rich men that pay taxes think a public school education should be limited to turning out clerks for them to use, boys and girls that can spell, write and do a little arithmetic—nothing else.

That is not what the people of the United States want for their children. They want them to have a COMPLETE EDUCATION, not merely as good as the richest man can give his child, BUT BETTER THAN ANY RICH MAN CAN GIVE HIS CHILDREN OUTSIDE OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The people at public expense enjoy parks that no rich man could afford; they travel on roads that no rich man could build; their libraries are infinitely superior to the library of the richest man.

More important than all is that they should have PUBLIC SCHOOLS, unrivalled by any schools on earth.

Defend and build up your public schools. Upon them, and upon their teachings, depends the future welfare of the United States.
